Overview

Sociology of Urban health examines the intersection of health and urbanization. This course investigates how place and urban social context affects health and well-being through various social features of the urban landscape and their intersection with key social identities. Health and health behaviors arise from a complex web of influences, from individual and household characteristics to institutional, organizational, and environmental contexts. An ecological approach may be fruitful for understanding patterns of health by focusing on the urban context that individuals enter into, influence, and are influenced by. With growing rates of urbanization, it is important to critically examine which features of cities impact individuals' health differentially, and why. To set the context for the course, we first discuss definitions, patterns, and historical to contemporary explanations of urban health in North America. We review historical changes in health (e.g. the epidemiological transition) and urban form (e.g. urbanization and suburbanization, the nature of community, and social life in urban areas). We examine why place is relevant to physical and mental health and for whom. We cover literature related to the relevance of everyday settings with a specific focus on individuals' neighbourhood of residence. In the latter part of the course we focus on the risks and protections for special populations in urban areas, including the poor, the homeless, racial and ethnic minorities, the young and old, and families with young children. We critically review research on these topics and discuss potential solutions for remedying exposure and vulnerability of these groups to the risks of urban settings.

This course has a third hour of weekly instruction that will be devoted to different topics – skills development, workshops, presentations of discussion groups. Students will complete an individual exercise as well as work in small groups to complete a research project. In addition to submitting a final group paper, all groups will develop a video presentation of their work.

Evaluation

Final marks will be based on the following—

- Weekly reaction/responses 15%
- Individual exercise 15%
- Group Project:
 - topic submission 10%
 - final paper 30%
 - presentation 20%
- Participation and attendance 10%

Readings and Lectures

The readings can be downloaded from the class web page. Due to copyright restrictions, you must login to access them. Most of the readings are in PDF format. Readings listed as “supplemental” or “further reading” are optional, meaning they are not required. The instructor will sometimes post slides or discussion guide the evening before class. They are provided to benefit in-class note taking. Besides the posted lecture slides, we will incorporate a range of audiovisual materials. It is important to complete all required readings and attend class.

Email and the Course Webpage

In my courses, email and the ability to access the course webpage is important. I will use e-mail for reminders, clarifications, last-minute notifications, etc. Feel free to contact me via e-mail with questions, requests or problems that were not --or could not be-- addressed in class.

Accessibility Needs

If you require accommodations or have any accessibility concerns, please visit <http://www.accessibility.utoronto.ca/> as soon as possible.

Late Work

If you are unable to complete work on time due to illness or personal or family crisis, please submit proper documentation from a physician or college registrar.

- In case of illness, you must supply a duly completed Verification of Student Illness or Injury form (available at www.illnessverification.utoronto.ca). A doctor’s note is not acceptable. The form must be placed in a sealed envelope and addressed to the instructor.
- If a personal or family crisis prevents you from meeting a deadline, you must get a letter from your college registrar (it is a good idea anyway to advise your college registrar if a crisis is interfering with your studies). The letter must be placed in a sealed envelope and addressed to the instructor.

Deadlines for Submitting Final Projects

Please turn in your project on time or it will be graded down as follows – 5% penalty for lateness, plus 3% penalty per day beginning after being more than one day late. After two weeks beyond the due date, late work will not be accepted without appropriate documentation from a student’s physician or college registrar (described above).

Plagiarism

Cheating and misrepresentation will not be tolerated. Students who commit an academic offense face serious penalties. Avoid plagiarism by citing properly: practices acceptable in high school may prove unacceptable in university. Know where you stand by reading the “Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters” in the Calendar of the Faculty of Arts and Science.

Normally, students will be required to submit their course essays to Turnitin.com for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University’s use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the Turnitin.com web site.
