It is impossible to demonstrate anything accurately, without starting from the appropriate first principles and sustaining a connected argument until the conclusions are reached.
Aristotle, Topics

The historical investigation of the development of a science is most needful, lest the principles treasured up in it become a system of half-understood precepts, or worse, a system of prejudices. Historical investigation not only promotes the understanding of that which now is, but also brings new possibilities before us by showing that what now exists is in great measure conventional and accidental.

 The prerequisite to take SOC201H1 is SOC100H1 and SOC150H1.
University policy mandates that students without this requirement will be removed upon discovery.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Introduction to the history, nature, and role of sociological theory, through an examination of the works of key classical theorists such as Karl Marx, Max Weber, Emile Durkheim, Georg Simmel, George Herbert Mead, Karl Mannheim, and others.

COURSE SYNOPSIS: The main focus of this course will be directed towards exploring and understanding the development of Sociological Theories in the so-called “Classical” Phase, when the foundations of the emerging discipline of Sociology were established: in the 19th and early 20th centuries. Knowledge of those theoretical “points of departure” is essential for comprehending subsequent theoretical developments in Sociology, for the “classics” continue to provide not only many of the basic orienting assumptions for sociological research, but also much of conceptual terminology presently being utilized in explicating social worlds and their transformations over time. As we shall attempt to establish, all forms of theoretical knowledge are in varying degrees “conditioned” by the social and historical contexts in which they originated, as well as “informed” by the inherited thought-traditions to which they respond, constructively and critically. Sociological Theory, in short, has a History, ... and that history is also sociological.

Academic Integrity is fundamental to learning at UofT. Familiarize yourself with the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters, at (http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies/behaveac.htm). It is the University rule book for academic behaviour, and you are expected to know the rules.

Plagiarism Policy: Ouriginal  Sometimes, students will be required to submit their assignments to the University’s plagiarism detection tool for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the tool’s reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University’s use of this tool are described on the Centre for Teaching Support & Innovation web site (https://uoft.me/pdt-faq). For some of your assignments, we will be using the software Ouriginal. It uses text matching technology as a method to uphold the University’s high academic integrity standards to detect any potential plagiarism. Ouriginal is integrated into Quercus. For the assignments set up to use Ouriginal, the software will review your paper when you upload it to Quercus. To learn more about Ouriginal’s privacy policy please review its Privacy Policy.

Email policy:  Owing to the large number of junk mailings I receive, I do not favor using this medium for class communication, other than for emergencies. My email address and home phone number are in the public domain, but my preference is for you to contact me in class for all course-related matters. NOTE: The TAs should be contacted first regarding all routine course matters.

Missed Tests:  Owing to the large enrolment, no “make-up” tests will be offered. For students with officially legitimate reasons and documentable proof for absences on test days, the policy will be to substitute a score from another assignment for the legitimately missed exam. Missed Lectures: Students who miss classes are expected to obtain lecture notes from classmates.

Policy on Extension Requests: Extensions for completing course assignments can only be given in accordance with university rules, which are limited to medical situations or family emergencies. Documentation will be required to establish compliance. NOTE: Late papers without such documentation will not be accepted, and scored as ‘0’ pts. Students who miss the test, or are late in submitting an assignment for medical reasons, need to email the instructor (not the TA), and also declare their absence on the system (ACORN). (NOTE: Because of Covid-19, students do NOT need to submit the usual documentation, i.e., medical notes or the Verification of Illness forms). Students who miss a test, or are late in submitting an assignment for other reasons, such as family or other personal reasons, should request their College Registrar to email the instructor.

WRITING ASSISTANCE
Students can find information about college writing centres at http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/writing-centres/arts-and-science. It is recommended that you book appointments well in advance, as the Writing Centres are commonly very busy. See also the website Writing at the University of Toronto at www.writing.utoronto.ca. For numerous practical advice files, see www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice. Information about the English Language Learning program (ELL) is available at: http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/advising/ell. There is also Reading eWriting, an online program that helps students engage course readings more effectively.

Publius Terentius Afer (c.195-160 BC)  Roman comedic playwright from North Africa, Libyan Berber descent, purchased slave of a Roman senator, educated and later freed; six plays survive. Terence gives us a wonderful and inspiring motto for the social sciences (and life in general!):

_Homo sum, humani nihil a me alienum puto._ “Being human, I consider nothing that is human alien to me.”

Theory is only one moment of elucidation, and always lacunary and fragmentary.
Cornelius Castoriadis, Crossroads in the Labyrinth

Everything that can be thought at all can be thought clearly. Everything that can be said can be said clearly.
Ludwig Wittgenstein, Tractatus

el viento verbal,
el viento que juega con espejos,
señor de reflejos,
constructor de ciudades de aire,
geometrias
suspendidas del hilo de la razón.

The wind of thought carried us away,
the verbal wind.
the wind that plays with mirrors,
master of reflections,
builder of cities of air,
geometries
hung from the thread of reason.

Ashes denote that Fire was—

Emily Dickinson

Description is revelation. It is not
The thing described, nor false facsimile.
It is an artificial thing that exists,
In its own seeming, plainly visible,
Yet not too closely the double of our lives,
Intenser than any actual life could be, ...

Wallace Stevens, “Description without Place”
